

Stand by what you sell

WEBINAR - ALPA

Play your part to help your industry stand by what it sells

Despite all the challenges of late – drought, fires, floods, COVID – the Australian livestock industry continues to get on with business. Now more than ever, it's important we protect the reputation of our $28 billion industry.

The foundations of Australia's red meat integrity system are Livestock Production Assurance, the National Livestock Identification System and National Vendor Declarations. This system means customers around the world trust Australian red meat is safe, ethically produced and high quality.

While livestock producers are responsible for keeping their integrity records in order, agents have an important role in the integrity system. Join us to make sure you're up-to-date, with discussion covering:

- Changes to National Vendor Declarations
- What the faster, easier new eNVD platform means for agents
- How the integrity system works with other compliance requirements, such as biosecurity, fit to load, and work health and safety
- Understand the roles and responsibilities of agents within the integrity system
- Q&A with the Integrity Systems Company team
